

PHOTO COURTESY OF CHUCK ALTON

Grand opening for science center

More than 150 people showed their support for the Bisbee Science Center pop-up shop Friday at the grand opening and ribbon-cutting ceremony. Bisbee Mayor David Smith celebrated with Etta Kralovec, associate professor of teacher education at the University of Arizona, who along with Melanie Greene, owner of M. Greene Planning and Development, and other partners, including the University of Arizona South, Freeport-McMoRan, the City of Bisbee and APS, made the opening possible and continue to work toward bringing a full science exploration and research center to Bisbee. The grand opening was also attended by Edwardo Quiroga, the mayor of Cananea, Sonora, who was accompanied by some of his staff. During the two-day open house, visitors enjoyed virtual reality exhibits and hands-on activities. The Bisbee Science Lab, located at 24 Main Street, gives science lovers a place to explore and practice science. Check out the website at www.bisbeesciencelab.org for more information and upcoming events.